The Government ave done things by halves, as they always eem to do. With better management they night conneivably have made a success of the coluntary system. When the system broke lown they might have instituted a logical ompulsory system. Everybody now sees that to third course of partial compulsion was eally practicable. The married recruits, who re an organised body, demand an extension of the Military Service Act. They are certainly supported by a majority of the rest of the electorate. We have no real doubt that a abjority of members of Parliament hold the time view. The Liberal War Committee has bready given a lead by putting compulsion or married men on its programme. It is thus head of the Unionist War Committee, which probably suffering from undigested members and temporary lack of leadership. We are not yet in possession of the secret of the German strategy, ut if, as may be inferred, there have been ide differences of opinion in German circles oncerning strategy by land and sea, any heck to the plan adopted would have been sized upon by its opponents and made the most of. We only see externals—the imposing profile of the volcano, with ever so little fleecy cloud upon the top. But underneath idden fires burn fiercely, and the hidden res of a volcano are a joke to those which urn in the Army Headquarters of a military lonarchy in the field. TORPEDOED.

BUKHAREST, SUNDAY (DELAYED).

The 7,000 ton steamer Esperanza, flying the German flag, sailing from Constanza for Constantinople, with a cargo of flour and other foodstuffs, was torpedoed off Kaleakru, on the Rommanian coast, by the Russian Fleet. The steamer first flew the Spanish flag, and then the Rumanian, which she finally lowered. The crew were saved and made prisoners by the Russians. About twenty small sailing vessels, similarly laden with foodstuffs for Constantinople, were also sunk. As a consequence, communication with Turkey has been definitely interrupted. MR. ELLIS GRIFFITH.

Mr. ELLIS GRIFFITH asked what were the functions of the Derby Committee. Did it do anything better than allay the jealousy or rivalry of the Army and the Navy? Had it got any money at its disposal? He was told that Sir Douglas Haig had not got an experienced airman on his staff, and it seemed incredible that that should be the case. He would like the Government to announce what decision they had arrived at in regard to giving assistance to the married men called to the Colours at the earliest possible moment,

MORT HOMME. GERMAN MISREPRESENTATION. (PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL) The following semi-official statement issued in Paris last night:

issued in Paris last night:—
German newspapers, after having used obscure language regarding the Mort Homme, and having mixed up Hill 255 and Hill 295, to-day adopt the course of announcing that the Germans are in possession of both of these heights. This fresh statement is absolutely the reverse of their attack on the 14th inst, on a front of over four kilometres, which was repulsed, the Germans managed to gain a footing in an element of the first line trench on Hill 265. Since then the French troops have not ceased to hold the opposite slope of Hill 265. As for Hill 295, the German troops did not set foot there at any time during the battle. The Germans themselves provided a proof that they had not reached the hill by making a great effort to take the Mort Homme (Hill 295) on the following day. Their attack having completely broken down, they contented themselves with saying in their despatches that it was the French who had attacked.

One train from Zeebrugge passing through Ghent contained some 350 wounded.

ray of light in the West, the success of the Russian troops aince the end of last week in the region south of Dvinsk must have made a discouraging impression. The Germans were the first to show activity. Their movement is supposed by the General Staff here to have been in the nature of a demonstration made either with the object of bluffling us into the belief that in spite of Verdun they were preparing an advance, or else in order to cover some shifting of troops. Our reply to them was prompt and decisive. A vigorous counterblow was delivered, which forced the enemy to retire from his original lines and left us in possession of a willage previously held by him. At the same time another local success was registered farther south, where another group of General Evert's forces drove out the enemy the police were awaiting instructions from the authorities in Dublin before arresting any of the ten men who escaped from the hall during the mélec.

On Tuesday night it was feared that a

Mr. Chapman was of opinion that the Council should support the resolution, as he considered it was very unfair that co-operative societies should be allowed to escape the payment of income tax.

The Chairman (Mr. W. H. Wright) said the resolution was in reality an attack on Sir cent. on Ordinary.

Mr. RUNCIMAN—I am afraid I cannot say more at the moment than that the matter is receiving the earnest attention of the Board of Trade, who fully realise the importance of the conditions referred to.

Sir J. LONSDALE—Can he hold out any prospect of a settlement of the labour dispute and a resumption of these services?

POSITION OF THE REICHSTAG.

(RECTER'S TELEGRAM.)

AMSTERDAM, WEDNISDAY.

Almost all the German papers, in view of the resumption of the discussion on the Budget Bill in the Reichstag to-morrow, devote articles to the resolutions regarding the submarine war sent to the Imperial Chancellor by the Catholic, National Liberal, and Conservative parties. Whether these resolutions will be discussed depends on the decision of the Business Committee of the Reichstag, which will meet to-morrow.

The Frankfurter Zeitung agrees with the Bavarian Staats Zeitung, that it is linadvisable to discuss the resolutions in public, but rather in meetings, because, as the Staats Zeitung emphasises, these resolutions could be interpreted as an interference with the suprema war command.

The Perliner Tageblate writes:—There is a movement on foot in Germany to obtain signatures in large quantities in order to create a tremendous demonstration in favour of an intensified submarine warfare. In some places waiters go from table to table endeavouring to obtain signatures from the customers. The Tageblate is very indignant with what it calls AMSTERDAM, WEDNESDAY waiters go from table to table endeavouring to obtain signatures from the customers. The Tageblatt is very indignant with what it calls this "anti-Governmental action." The journal adds that some big German insurance conpanies have instructed their representatives in Holland not to insure any more ships against war risks. This shows, "according to the Telegrap", that there is but little confidence that Dutch ships will be spared by German submarines.

Some aeroplanes were also destroyed. One of the German aircraft which went up to engage a French machine came down, but its occupants were only slightly wounded.

PORTADOWN COUNCIL AND SIR

The Parliamentary correspondent of the Daily Telegraph understands that the Chancellor of the Exchequer will probably introduce the Budget on Wednesday, April 5—five days after the close of the financial year. This arrangement will allow the Finance Bill to be laid before the House of Commons prior to the Easter Recess.

The Portadown Town Council, at a meeting of Tuesday night, were asked to adopt a resolution of the Galway Urban Council protesting against the practice of the Government granting subsidies to co-operative societies, and exempting such addiesters from income tax.

Mr. Chapman was of opinion that the Council should support the resolution, as he considered in the control of the Galway Urban Council protesting against the practice of the Government granting subsidies to co-operative societies.

The General: Wouldn't hold anything!

Dunlop: Exactly; and a cover with rubber barbs, so to speak, won't hold your car on grease. Rubber doesn't bite through to solid ground; steel does. On the other hand, rubber will hold on a surface where steel would slip.

The General: So you recommend? Dunlop: Steel-studded covers on the near-back and off-front wheels and grooved rubber covers on the other two. It is the best all-round arrangement for varying road surfaces and weather conditions.
